

Memo from
JOSHUA LEDERBERG

To: Hal Holman

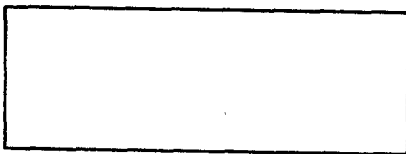

APR 16 1973

Science ↔ Society

is a complex subject, about which I learn more from day to day, and I certainly have neither perfected nor well-articulated my views.

I lean more heavily on "sociology of knowledge" or cognitive style, aspects of the problem than on economic determinism - without denying their interplay. (Perhaps I have an inordinate faith in the ultimate virtue and power of liberal democracy).

Sorry, no ms. for the June lectures, but take the enclosures as "sloppy drafts" certainly subject to clarification of style and even more of substance.

PROFESSOR JOSHUA LEDERBERG
Department of Genetics
School of Medicine
Stanford University
Stanford, California 94305

HOLMAN, H.R. • STANFORD UNIVERSITY • OFFICE MEMORANDUM